DECLARES NEW YORK LIFE A FRAUD

CONTROLLER DAVIS REVOKES LICENSE OF INSURANCE COMPANY

Head of Commission Takes Drastic Action, Putting Nevada's Stamp of Disapproval on Methods of McCall

A BOMBSHELL was exploded in the ranks of the insurance companies yesterday afternoon when State Controller Sam P. Davis at Carson City revoked the license of the New York Life Insurance Company in Nevada, the result of the startling disclosures now being made in the investigation of the insurance companies.

It remained for Nevada to take the initiative in what promises to be a general revocation of the company's permit to do business throughout the United States. It is not entirely unexpected in official quarters, for Mr. Davis has been quietly investigating the affairs of the New York Life and other companies in Nevada for the past few weeks.

It is by far the hardest blow yet received by the New York Life, for Nevada, until noon yesterday, was its most promising field. Offices have been established in every town and mining camp of the state. The action of Controller Davis yesterday puts these places out of commission, practically recalls every employe of the company in the state and no matter what the final action, will inflict a heavy loss on the big insurance company, the officers of which have been spending the money of the policy holders to defeat the will of the American people.

IN accordance with the action of the commission Mr. Davis yesterday sent the following telegram to President McCall:

John McCall, President of the New York Life Insurance Company, New York City, N. Y.--Pending investigation of corrupt management and fraudulent exposures in the disposal of funds instrusted to your company and so long as yourself and George Perkins retain offices of trust in the management of the New York Life the License of the company to do business in the state of Nevada is hereby revoked. Upon advice of change of management and satisfactory proof of honest management license will be reissued. (Signed:) SAM P. DAVIS,

Comptroller and ex-Officio Insurance Commissioner of the State of Nevada.

DOING BIG BUSINESS

It is only of late years that the New York Life has tried for business in Nevada, though its last report filed with Controller Davis shows a total of more than $2,900,000 in risks carried in Nevada. This amount is divided among 1174 policy holders, who until the first day of January last paid into the treasury of the New York Life Insurance Company in premiums the sum of $102,477.

LARGE INCREASE SINCE JANUARY

Since the first of January it can be safely stated that the business of the company in the state has increased at least one third, for agents have been busily engaged in the mining camps of the southern portion of the state, as well as in Reno. Many large policies in the New York Life are known to have been written.

EVIDENCE OF FRAUD

Controller Davis is in possession of absolute proof, showing that the officers of the New York Life are guilty of the grossest fraud in handling the money and the affairs of the policy holders of the company.

CONTROLLER DAVIS SPEAKS

"This action has been contemplated for some time," said Mr. Davis last evening, "It is not done without careful investigation. I am in possession of a letter addressed to myself and signed by President McCall of the New York Life in which he admits that his company in the campaign of 1896, 1900 and even in 1904 contributed money to campaign funds for the sole purpose of defeating the aims of the American people to secure the free and unlimited coinage of silver. Mr. McCall in his letter states that the gold standard is irrevocably established and for this reason further use of the money of the policy holders of the New York Life will not be necessary.

"Now, the fact that the New York Life spent money for political purposes is not of record in the reports filed with me by the company. This in itself is an evidence of fraud, an open record of the fact that the insurance company, the officers of which used money to defeat the free silver issue in three campaigns, is carrying on business in a most fraudulent manner.

MONEY SPENT BY MORGAN

"But this is not all. The investigation now in progress has shown that Perkins, the right hand man of John Pierpont Morgan, has loaned money to Morgan for the private enterprises of the latter, that when these investments have proved successful the profits have been pocketed by Perkins, Morgan et al, while the losses have come from the pockets of New York Life policy holders.

PRESIDENT IN LETTER ADMITS CRIMINAL USE OF PEOPLE'S MONEY

State Presidential Campaigns Were Managed With View of Defeating Free Silver Issue

PROTECTING THE PEOPLE

"In taking this action I am doing both as a state officer and a private citizen, whose duty it is to protect the people of Nevada from being robbed. Until there is a change both in the management and in the policy of the company I deem it a protection to the citizens of the state to prevent the New York Life Insurance Company from doing business in Nevada."

POLICY HOLDERS NOT AFFECTED

Though the action of Controller Davis yesterday will prevent the company from doing further business in the state it in no manner affects the present policy holders.

MOTHER MURDERED IN PRESENCE OF CHILDREN

Japanese Laborer, Crazed by Being Scorned by Woman, Kills Her and Then Places Too to Trigger and Commits Suicide

FRESNO, Oct. 3—T. Nakoyama, a Japanese laborer, today shot the wife of Goro Ando, his friend, three times with a small calibre rifle and then killed himself.

Nakoyama's attentions to the woman met with scorn and he murdered her before her two children, aged 6 and 4 years. Nakoyama then removed his shoe and with the big toe of one foot he pressed the trigger of the rifle, the bullet passing through his windpipe.

BANTA DOG IS POISONED

Suspicion That Deed Was Committed by Enemies May Lead to Arrests Being Made

The big dog owned by Harrison Banta was found dead on Maple street early yesterday morning, the result of poisoning. The dog has been the cause of the recent trouble in that otherwise peaceful neighborhood. Last week the canine severely bit Gladys Taylor. The matter reached the courts and in a trial it was ruled the dog was not vicious and should not be killed.

At the time threats were made to kill the dog and the young man who owned the animal believed that the threats were carried out yesterday.

It is probable the incident will again be brought to the attention of the officers, though at present there is no evidence as to who gave the dog the poison.

NEARLY DIED AT COMO

W. G. Caffrey, Well Known Electrician, is Brought Back to Reno in Unconscious Condition

W. G. Caffrey, the well known electrician, was brought to his home in Reno Monday night from Como in an unconscious condition, his jaw locked and otherwise suffering, the result of being overcome by the high altitude. Yesterday the sick man was greatly improved and last night was reported out of danger.

Sunday morning Mr. Caffrey left Reno for Como for the purpose of superintending the erection of a new electric plant. Soon after his arrival teh altitude began to affect him and but for the prompt action of friends in carrying him to a lower level he would undoubtedly have died.

Como is about 800 feet higher above the sea level than Reno.

DAY'S NEWS FROM SPARKS

DEMOLISHED CARS OF HARNEY WRECK

Arrived Yesterday From Scene of Disaster En Route to Shops at Sacramento

Yesterday the remains of the Harney wreck, consisting of one baggage car, one day coach and the engine which was on the third section of No. 3, arrived in the Sparks yards. The two coaches were loaded on flat cars and the engine came as a portion of the train.

The engine was placed in the round house and will be repaired later and the mutilated cars will be taken to the car shops at Sacramento.

The day coach is badly torn to pieces, having been telescoped. It was in this car that Thomas Mason received injuries which resulted in his death. It was completely telescoped by the heavy sleepers which were forced upon from the rear. The baggage coach is not seriously damaged, only one end being slightly crushed. Only three cars were injured in the wreck, the third a sleeper, having been repaired and is now in use on the road.

The engine is only slightly damaged, the pilot having been torn away. It will be ready for use as soon as it is given a thorough overhauling and a coat of paint administered

Resumed His Duties

Dispatcher T. J. Fitzgerald yesterday resumed his duties at the office after an illness of several days. He has been suffering from a severe attack of erysipelas in the face.

FIELD SURVEYED AT STATE PARK

Yesterday afternoon Manager Taylor and Captain Jones of the football team surveyed and lined up the football field at the state park. It was the opinion of both men that the grounds will be more suitable for playing than the old gridiron on the campus. The soil is of a loamy character and the players will not be bruised and scratched by the gravel, as has always been the case on the athletic field.

Just prior to the game with Reliance on the 14th the field will be laid out in the checkerboard fashion required by the rules in vogue this season. Spectators will be able to obtain an admirable view of the progress of the game from the grand stand. Side lines will be placed at a distance of about twenty feet from the field. This will prevent the crowd from interfering with the players.

Nothing to Fear

FIRE DEPARTMENT READY FOR USE

Everything in Readiness and Taps Will Be Connected as Soon as Water Is Turned in Mains

Everything is now in readiness for the installation of the new fire department. The material and equipments have all arrived and as soon as the water company is ready to turn the water in the city mains the taps will be put in and the department made ready for immediate service.

The department will be well equipped and able to cope successfully with any fire which is likely to occur in the city. A few lateral pipes yet remain to be put in by the water company and it will probably be several days before the fire taps and hydrants are connected and the water turned in.

The city is provided with three thousand feet of hose and two hose carts. The chief of police is also fire chief and has the power to select the members of the fire department. No names have as yet been suggested but as soon as the department is ready for service a competent force will be selected.

COAL BUNKERS ARE NOW SAFE

Fire at Last Under Complete Control and Loss to Company Will Be Slight

By the earnest efforts of the employes of the company the fire which has been raging in the coal bunkers is at last under control. For the past ten days a force of two dozen men has been at work night and day loading the burning coal on engines and placing it in separate piles. Much has been placed in sheet iron cars and moved away from the bunkers. From the cars it is loaded on engines and used on the road.

In this way the burning coal has been utilized and the loss of fuel lessened to a great extent.

Five hundred feet of hose was sent from Salt Lake to be used in subduing the fire and since its arrival five streams of water have been continually in play on the burning mass. It was thought at one time that the fire would result in the total loss of all coal stored in the bunkers. It is the belief of the officials at the present time that no further trouble will ensue.

UNIVERSITY NOTES

Co-eds Have Voices Tested

Girls' Glee Club Held First Meeting of the Year Yesterday Afternoon

Yesterday afternoon the Girls' Glee Club held their initial meeting of the college year. The club is composed of all co-eds who have any talent in the vocal line. Last year it was one of the chief entertaining features at the university, being asked to render its services on all occasions of any importance.

At the meeting held yesterday all new co-eds who were desirous of entering the club had their voices tested by Mrs. Layton who has charge of the club. It was found that many of the new students have voices of remarkable timbre and with a little training will be valuable additions to the club. The membership of this year shows a great increase over last year.

The girls are making preparations to give a concert at an early date. The proceeds of the entertainment will be used to buy books for the use of the club and also to aid in paying the salary of the instructor. The club will meet each Tuesday afternoon. All co-eds desirous of becoming members should see Mrs. Layton and have their voices tested immediately.

Will Meet to Elect Officers

Crescent Club Will Hold First Meeting of the Year Next Saturday Night

Next Saturday night the Crescent Club, one of the oldest literary societies in the university, will hold its first meeting of the year in room 6, Morrill Hall. The officers for the ensuing year will be elected at this meeting and much business of importance will be transacted.

The Crescent Club is purely a social and literary society, its membership being limited to members of the special and preparatory department of the college. It has a larger membership than any other society in the university.

Last year the members of the society began the publication of a monthly paper devoted to the interests of the organization. The publication was set up and printed by the club and was a credit to all concerned in its publication.

New members will be received by the club at any time. A small assessment is levied on each member every month in order to defray the necessary expenses of the club.

SONG BOOKS PRESENTED BY PROFESSOR BROWN

Professor Brown last night presented the students at the university dining hall with a fine set of song books containing all the college songs. Each table was given five of the books.

This was done by Professor Brown to encourage the action of the students in singing each evening at the dinner hour. This is something never before done by the students and is meeting with the hearty approval of all. Hereafter the dining hall has been a scene as far as college spirit was concerned with the exception of the college and class yells which were given on special occasions.

Meeting Postponed

On account of the death of William Frey the meeting of the Priscilla Society has been postponed from Thursday until Friday afternoon. It will meet with Mrs. Akerly, 207 Scott street, at 2:30 o'clock.

THE POSTAL SERVICE AND THE RAILROAD

THE sympathies of The Journal are with Carson in its efforts to secure just treatment in the dispatch of mails from the Capitol City to Tonopah and other points south. It is evident that the Southern Pacific is discriminating against the Virginia and Truckee by the train schedule between Mound House and Fort Churchill, and Carson is suffering accordingly. That city, it seems to us, is going about the business of obtaining redress in the right way. It has formed a business men's association and is adopting the powerful weapon of petition. It appears that the contracts between the government and the railroads call for a daily registered mail between Carson and Churchill, and that the Southern Pacific railroad is not according the government its rights in the matter but is sending all registered mail from Carson via. Hazen, causing the loss of a day in transit. The business men's association petitions the government to remedy this defect.

The petition is an eminently just and proper one, but past observation of the relations between the postal department and the railroad company tend to make any observer not cheered by the possession of tainted railroad money to view the outcome through pessimistic spectacles.

The business of the government, in so far as it relates to the handling of mails by railroads, is directed from the office of the Postmaster General at Washington and the title of the particular functionary assigned to the charge of this work is the Second Assistant Postmaster General. The railway postal service is subdivided into eight divisions, each division having its headquarters in the largest city of the division. The division to which Nevada is assigned is known as the Eighth Division, with headquarters in San Francisco. The official in charge at that city is known as the Superintendent of the Eighth Division. Any communication addressed to the department at Washington concerning the mail service between Carson and Churchill will be referred to him, and, if the general rule be followed, the action taken will depend largely upon his report.

Will his report favor the people of Carson, or will it favor the Southern Pacific?

That question may be answered by another: Do the officials of the railway mail service generally favor the railroads at the expense of their employers—the people? Emphatically, yes. There's a reason, several reasons, in fact.

Ten years ago the Superintendent of the Railway Mail Service, with headquarters at San Francisco was on trial at Washington for drunkenness, incompetency, favoritism, neglect of duty and various other trivial offenses of that sort. The charges were such as to have caused the instant dismissal of any clerk against whom they might have been leveled, and the evidence was overwhelmingly conclusive. But the Superintendent had a "pull," and one of the strongest factors in that pull was the senior senator from California, a director of the Southern Pacific railroad. The Superintendent returned to San Francisco triumphantly white-washed. The government had followed its usual course and succumbed to the railroad pull. The railroad had a friend in the Superintendent and the Superintendent had a friend in the railroad.

But prosperity proved the undoing of this Superintendent, and he presumed too far. His breaches of department rules became so open and so flagrant that they could no longer be endured, and the department at Washington was compelled to take notice once more. The Superintendent's pull was too great to permit of his summary dismissal, but he was reduced and another Superintendent had to be appointed.

The new Superintendent was a very effective and efficient man. He did not drink, his habits were exemplary in every respect, and he might have lived and died in the government employ had he so chosen. But a year or two ago he resigned his $2,500-a-year job to take a $7,500-a-year situation. Where? In the employ of the Harriman railroad outfit, to look out for their interests in the handling of their mail business with the government.

It is the same old story over again: The railroads get the goods but the people pay the freight.

One can hardly blame those Superintendents for standing in with the railroads. They were not set a good example to start with. They secured their first positions in the railway mail service through the influence of certain senators. They saw those senators shipping public documents under the senatorial frank by the ton during the mail-weighing season, thereby fattening the pockets of the railroad by ill-gotten gains and robbing the people to do it. They saw that the law commands that the mail-cars shall be built of cedar, and found that they were constructed (by the railroad) of fragile redwood, that turned to kindling whenever there was a train wreck, and added largely to the fearful mortality that makes the occupation of railway mail clerk one of the most hazardous in the land. They noticed that the government, paying more by far for the carrying of the mails than any company does for the carriage of express matter, permitted the mail cars to occupy the post of honor—and of danger—next the locomotive, sacrificing the lives of its employes and the property of the common people, who are supposed to have the running of this government.

Is it any wonder that, educated in such a school, they have adopted as their motto, "The people be d——d"?

The petition of the Carson business men may be acted upon—it may even be acted upon favorably—but, in the light of past events, we would advise any friend of sporting propensities to lay his money on the railroad end.

A MYSTERIOUS murder occurred in England recently and Sir. A. Conan Doyle was asked to discover the motive. The author of Sherlock Holmes gave up the job. The English are said to be slow on jokes, but no one can accuse the man who put that poser to Sir Conan of a lack of humor.

THE Lewis and Clark exposition has a very beautiful bubble fountain. It does much to add to Portland's bubble reputation.

MR. ROCKEFELLER regards Mr. Carnegie's libraries as absurd. What does Mr. Carnegie think of Mr. Rockfeller's university?

AMERICANS are becoming quite exercised over the despoiling of Switzerland for commercial purposes. But what of Niagara falls?

SPAIN'S secretary of the navy wants $86,000,000 to invest in new ships. And this while riots for bread are common in that country, which no longer produces masters of the sea.

THE little flurry in New York money rates may be intended as a hint to congress that Wall street wants that elastic currency legislation as well as elastic insurance companies.

BUT among all those curios brought home by Secretary Taft there will be no Filipino amendments to the Declaration of Independence. The document does not yet march in those regions.

THE president will be satisfied with almost any kind of a Panama canal, provided it is large enough and does not take too long to complete it. With him time is of the essence of the enterprise.

THE Nevada City Transcript distinguishes Carson City as "the town of Sam Davis." To have his home town designated in that manner is surely glory enough for any man who has not the misfortune to be dead.

SWEEP OF REFORM A HOPEFUL AUGURY

IT is instructive to note that the moral awakening which is the dominant phase of the life of the American people at this time, has taken place during a period of abounding prosperity. Usually it is not so. Such a period is historically a time of riot of all kinds; when the pinch comes physically, moral reflection commonly sets in. It has not been so with us and from it we may argue hopefully that it is to be no flash in the pan. There are two more features of it that point in the same direction; it is confined to no one kind of dereliction and to no one place. The Minneapolis and Milwaukee and Philadelphia uprisings were against municipal corruption each differing in specific features. Governor Folk's crusade beginning against the form of municipal corruption especially that took the shape of rascally contracts, has continued in a general enforcement of law and has spread all over the state by virtue of his accession to the governorship.

In New York Mr. Jerome, the district attorney of Manhattan, has been hunting down official dereliction for years. The reform is wider than this. The insurance investigations show that it includes the conduct of private business. The action of the government in various departments of the public business witness to the same spirit.

There is a promise in all this that not merely the specific wrong that may be uncovered will be punished, but that we shall go further and install a better system; that hand in hand with the demand that the law shall be observed in the conduct of the public business we shall place that business on a basis similar to that of private business; shall cut off the wrongful conditions that allow if they do not invite the use of public funds for private benefit.

And that this great movement should come in a time of general prosperity and should attack malfeasance and dereliction of all kinds—both private and public—is a most hopeful augury, for it points to an awakening on principle. It is the part of every good citizen to keep it alive.

EDUCATORS ARE POORLY PAID

Mrs. John A Logan Points Out Glaring Fact That Teachers Receive Small Salaries

(By Mrs John A Logan)

The salaries of teachers and educators have furnished the theme for many newspaper and magazine articles, without influencing any material change or advancement. The compensation of almost all wage earners, except teachers, has kept pace with the increase in the price of every commodity. Why this should be so no one seems to be able to explain, and yet it is a fact beyond disproof.

The profession of educators requires longer and more thorough preparation than that which is necessary for any other profession or vocation. They must in addition study very hard at all times to keep abreast with the progress of the age and the development of science art and literature if they are worthy of their positions. They must study human nature the temperaments gifts and individual talents of their pupils to be successful. They must cultivate patience forbearance and the necessary tactics for developing their pupils.

They must be careful to get a proper example before the youth intrusted to their care. In all respects their obligations and duties are relentlessly exacting. And yet the standard of remuneration for their services is absurdly low compared with that given for manual and mechanical service.

Naturally it would be unfortunate if the position were taken by preachers and teachers that they would only labor for the highest pecuniary rewards that they would gauge their interest by the prices paid them. Such a step would seriously affect the masses and would cut off very many from the benefits of schools and churches, and it is not at all probable that any such position will ever be taken by those who are engaged in the work of educating or redeeming mankind.

Persons occupied in such vocations and professions have higher ambitions and ideals. Their hearts are as much enlisted as their interests. They are inspired to give their best efforts to the cultivation of minds and hearts and await their reward. Therefore it is the duty of those who decide the financial consideration to be just and generous for the most important work that is done for the human family.

The trustees and business managers of great universities colleges and schools which are so liberally endowed by generous benefactors should see to it that the professors masters and teachers receive salaries and compensations commensurate with their labors for the advancement of the pupils and students who are under their tutilage. School boards who are empowered to fix the salaries of the teachers in the public schools should employ none but the most efficient and to them should be paid liberal salaries for of all servants they are the most worthy of their hire.

The requirements of the pupils of the public schools and the exacting parents of the most onerous of any [illegible] in all the world. Many of these teachers must [illegible] the duties of parents as well as those of teachers. They must devote their whole time in and out of school hours to some interest of the school in which they are employed. If they have pride—and they should not be engaged if they have not—they are frequently confronted with the painful position on account of the inadequacy of their salaries of being unable to accomplish much they desire to do.

I have always thought that if school boards would be more ambitious in the selection of teachers and seeing them fairly compensated for their labors and less in the housing and pretentious appointments of the school buildings I would speak better for their hearts and judgment.

Imposing school edifices are all very well and a community having them should be proud of them at the same time they should know that the teachers in those buildings are the best that can be secured and that for their conscientious discharge of their duties they receive equitable salaries. Brains and the special gifts necessary to make good teachers should be estimated as of more importance and worth more money than expensive buildings.

Beggarly salaries are poor stimulants to inspire teachers to their best endeavors for the pupils. Good salaries not only make the recipient happy but in the end go to the benefit of the schools which get the advantage of the many opportunities well paid teachers can secure for themselves and their pupils. Well paid teachers are not harassed by the inevitable demands of the high prices for the necessaries of life and are consequently in better spirits and are more cheerful while in the performance of their duties and intercourse with pupils and students.

"Bet?" exclaimed Tom O'Rourke last evening. I wouldn't bet on a San Francisco fight unless I was in on it and on the losing end at that. The above extract is from a New York paper. O'Rourke should know. He has figured in several fights out west.

Camping on the Trail

A Reminiscense of Pioche, by John Maguire in Salt Lake Herald

Arriving at Caliente we are now in the old sagebrush state, Nevada having left behind the homes of the most industrious thrifty hospitable and certainly the most maligned people on the entire continent—the Mormons. Stepping on the platform at Caliente the first salutation is the cry "all aboard for Pioche." Drawn close by the depot is a stage to take passengers and express to the famous old mining camp. I immediately determine to stay over here and visit De Lamar and Pioche. Pioche! What a host of recollections it conjures up what tales of comedy and also of tragedy are associated with its brief history! Pioche which a San Francisco paper stigmatized as the slaughter house of Nevada on account of the many murders committed on its streets.

Pioche another San Francisco journal [illegible] said where men [illegible] by day and robbed stage by night.

This of course was a gross libel on as good and law-abiding citizens as could be found in any community and as representative as were the inhabitants of Pioche. Nevertheless it must be admitted the camp was wild and woolly in the heyday of its prosperity. Where else on God's earth could there be a home for the demi monde built by public subscription but in Pioche. Yet there was a chivalrous justification for the same. In the early days of the camp when only a few families found their way to the place while yet the hillsides were dotted with huts where [illegible] miners found shelter business places being then in a state of transition from the tent to the weather board stone or brick building everywhere [illegible] the inconvenience which characterize a new mining camp it is hardly necessary to state that anything like homes or family residences had not as yet appeared. There were however a few houses whose appearance betokened externally all the comforts of a home. The largest most commodious and prosperous looking establishment was presided over by a certain Nelly Johnson. I give a fictitious name here on purpose as she is still living in a faraway state married [illegible] and highly respected in the community in which she moves. This house contained a number of female boarders young and attractive both in their behavior and looks.

In the evenings the place was quite a resort for young men about town for music and dancing was indulged in and a sound of revelry by night could always be heard by the passerby. Anyone living for any time in a mining camp will notice that certain corners or centers in a street are the resort of crowds of men who stand around and retail the gossip of the day. As if by a tacit understanding will they congregate daily at certain hours on that particular vantage ground. It is their Rialto. Well one day in the afternoon when the street was most densely crowded there was a sudden crash terrific in its sound appalling in its magnitude. The very mountains seemed to split asunder, and spit forth fire and smoke while gigantic boulders were hurled into space and pulverized into atoms.

The heavens were [illegible] by a combination of earthquake and cyclone. There was a mighty wind [illegible] all was darkness but mightier than the [illegible] of all combined was the piercing agonizing wail of the dying and the mutilated in that terrible explosion of giant powder which killed and wounded nearly 150 human beings in a few seconds. Right in the [illegible] part of the principal business street in [illegible] was [illegible] the miners [illegible] convenience [illegible] for the sake of [illegible] stored [illegible] several kegs of giant powder. The explosion took place. Of course an inquest was held. The [illegible] duly [illegible] to [illegible] civilization [illegible] called a coroner's jury.

Rescuers immediately set to work in extricating such as showed life from the ruins of buildings etc in the vicinity. Relief parties were immediately organized. Many of the men maimed in this sad disaster and at death's door had no other home than a blanket spread on the hillside.

Mostly all of the victims were in the flush of young manhood. Few doctors were there available but those few [illegible] the grand [illegible] of their profession and worked to the very limit of endurance. There was then no hospital no fraternal organization as yet located but there was that one touch of nature that maketh the whole world kin and found its expression in a grand wave of Christian charity. [illegible] command of the master was carried out. Love ye one another.

Hovering over the dying and the wounded assisting the doctors making bandages dressing the wounds lifting with gentle force [illegible] and ministering neither to the lips already sealed with death's pallid like angels of mercy Nell Johnson and her female companions were around. They gave all they possessed [illegible] of house linen and wearing apparel tearing into shreds for the making of lint and bandages. They also cooked such broths and stimulants as would give relief while these [illegible] most [illegible] danger were nursed day and night as long as self [illegible] could preserve life. These girls [illegible] never appeared in the public streets but miners and merchants tipped their hats in respectful salute.

Many months after the above occurrence in the dead of night there was a scream from the Raymond and Ely whistle. The Meadow Valley immediately belched forth a response. The Heime shrieked out in shrillness and the [illegible] sound which [illegible] be heard outside of a large mining camp [illegible] till the very air [illegible] off [illegible] kind of firearms the [illegible] of bells [illegible] of gongs etc all simultaneous besides the shouts of the people now crowding the streets make a scene of excitement [illegible] easily described nor easily forgotten. Right at the upper end of Main Street an old stable took fire [illegible] to an adjacent building and [illegible] from one to another [illegible] Main Street was [illegible] of flame. [illegible] all the stars shone forth in all their effulgence but now they paled their ineffectual fires for the [illegible] was [illegible] a flash of pale pink and [illegible] to utter darkness. The fire department headed by two old Comstock veterans Tom Daily and Pat Holland [illegible] work but to no avail. Their resources were [illegible] to cope with [illegible] furious [illegible] toward the bum [illegible] the fire [illegible] by a strong wind from the gulch in upper Main street were soon [illegible] Already they were in vicious contact with the house owned by Nelly Johnson seeing which the people yelled with one accord to say [illegible] to no purpose [illegible] morning saw an entire block of smouldering ruins including [illegible] home.

Of course there was much sympathy for the [illegible] suffered financial loss [illegible] of Nelly Johnson [illegible] with the [illegible] that sympathy assumed such a [illegible] that a full [illegible] was immediately started [illegible] the camp and was most liberally responded to. There [illegible] a [illegible] tribute of a public [illegible] Johnson and her girls [illegible] the new house [illegible] furnished [illegible] elegantly furnished including the most expensive carpets and [illegible] cost [illegible] in Pioche $11,000. These incidents are recorded as typical [illegible] in the [illegible] days [illegible] can never again be duplicated in the west.

Pioche! It was here that Jack Harris whom Mark Twain has emblazoned in "Roughing It" lived and drew his pension or pay of $300 per month from Wells Fargo & Co ostensibly as a detective but really to keep him off the road. For Jack had at various times been tried for holding up the stage but was invariably acquitted because he could invariably prove an alibi—a most useful thing to a gentleman of his profession.

Here too was the home of Nickaraqua or as he was commonly called Nick Norreye a handsome young [illegible] of Spanish parentage always dressed in neat and costly apparel who had the reputation of holding up a stage with the nerve of a Dick Turpin and the [illegible] of a Barrington or a Paul Duvall.

Who living during those days in Pioche will not remember the gambler's [illegible] ever Mary whose run of luck on the faro table on many occasions broke the bank. And poor little Madame Mustache the little [illegible] who was so well known in every prosperous mining camp on the Pacific Coast who presided between the hours of [illegible] and [illegible] twenty one [illegible] she would cry out "Come along! Make your games [illegible]" and with a nonchalant [illegible] for the crowd while [illegible] winning. Poor little body. She made gambling a business just as she might have made dressmaking or millinery. [illegible] outside of this mode of living I never heard her character assailed. She was [illegible] and hospitable [illegible] found the game of life growing [illegible] [illegible] outside of Bodie and laid down. An empty pistol by her side [illegible] told the story.

When the [illegible] was published [illegible] Madame Mustache.

I [illegible] from my reverie of Pioche by a slap on the shoulder and turning around I am grabbed by the hand of a grizzled looking [illegible] Hello [illegible] Great Scott I'm glad to see you.

[illegible] Mike Hurt [illegible] his young days Mike the Mule. How Mike got his [illegible] is worth relating as it gives a good deal of his stubbornness [illegible] The story [illegible] Mike arriving at the camping place where the town of Milford now [illegible] dismounting from his horse [illegible] the saddle endeavored to [illegible] mule [illegible] the rope up to the spot where he wished to deposit her pack. Mule-like [illegible] he pulled the more [illegible] her fore legs firmly and [illegible] neck with [illegible] If truth be told [illegible] mule [illegible] the [illegible] choler more than [illegible] of [illegible]

After tugging in [illegible] for several [illegible] and although he [illegible] by fastening the [illegible] with a [illegible] around [illegible] the mule [illegible] he refused to attempt at [illegible] to vanquish her by main strength.

HOW A BOODLER IS CAPTURED

But One to Confess, Says Governor Folk, and Others Will Be Anxious to Follow

When you attempt to convict a boodler, said Governor Folk to District Attorney Seymour, "you have got about the hardest job you ever undertook in your life. The way to get a boodler however is to get another boodler to confess and tell what he knows about the other fellows. Whenever you have a boodler who wants to turn state's evidence to clear himself let him do so and go free—that is if he knows anything at all worth confessing.

Even if you do not secure a conviction in the case the result is of inestimable value and has a good effect upon the public. Somehow or other the people are always willing to believe a boodler when he confesses. Every confession is another link in the chain toward better government. If you cannot get a confession from some one of the boodlers it is difficult to secure a conviction and the state is up against it. One thing that I have noticed is that if you get one boodler to turn state's evidence you soon have them all running to you trying to tell what they know.

Governor Folk congratulated Seymour upon his success in handling the cases of the boodling senators and offered to assist him in any way that he could whenever called upon. He also spoke of the statute covering the boodling cases and compared those of Missouri with the laws of California.

Governor Folk said he was well pleased with California and found this was [illegible] only a [illegible] state.

District Attorney Seymour said one [illegible] California was that Democrats were few and far between.

Well you have an excellent climate and [illegible] soil here and grow [illegible] I do not see why you can't raise good Democrats, said Governor Folk.

Seymour replied that California [illegible] good Democrats but the other side generally managed to win them over.

The Missouri Governor talked with the citizens until the train started to move and then said he regretted his [illegible] here was so brief. He said he would like to have remained over a day to attend the [illegible] trial.

THE PASSING OF A TRULY GREAT FIGHTER

Now that we have read all the accounts of the recent Murphy-Dixon fight carefully there is but one conclusion that we can arrive at and that conclusion is a positive fact that George Dixon once the peerless champion featherweight of the world is down and out so far as the fighting game is concerned.

Dissipation and old age forced him to the rear but let me say right here it will be many a day before another George Dixon flashes on the fistic horizon as did the little colored fellow from Boston.

He was a real champion in everything the word implies. He fought most of his battles with skin gloves and he went about this country and to England throwing down the gauntlet to all who cared to accept. George Dixon never allowed a match to fall through on account of a pound or two in weight but in nine out of every ten fights he ever had he conceded weight to his opponent.

He was the champion for about twelve years and in that time met every man in the world who had a claim on him. He traveled with a vaudeville show and met all comers every night in every city in which he appeared. Then too it must be known that these local fighters would go to the manager of the theater where Dixon was to show and get the exact date of his appearance for months ahead and then quietly go into training so that when George came around he met a perfectly trained fighter while he himself never trained for a minute.

AGGRESSIVENESS AND A PUNCH NECESSARY

The fight [illegible] with great [illegible] of the sporting public have been the aggressive [illegible] who while [illegible] the world [illegible] willing to take [illegible] to [illegible] many very clever [illegible] who [illegible] quite popular but [illegible] them could not hit hard enough to do [illegible] damage and as soon as a good [illegible] along with the punch [illegible] clever one [illegible]

Of the old-timers Sullivan was probably the most popular and most of the [illegible] fights just [illegible] and his awful punch. Sullivan was [illegible] aggressive [illegible] at his man continually and when he would land one of his sledge hammer blows the crowd would shout its approval.

Fitzsimmons, McGovern and Young Corbett were all aggressive and [illegible] always willing to mix with their opponents at any time. Jeffries was also willing to swap wallops and was [illegible] [illegible] Battling Nelson [illegible] is not so very [illegible] comes a long ways from being a clever sparrer but he is able to take an awful beating and no matter how many blows are rained on him he continually bores in and mixes it at close quarters and from the time he enters the ring until he leaves it there is something doing.

COLONEL HOPKINS TO START WORK AT ONCE

The county commissioners at [illegible] yesterday granted an extension [illegible] to Col. J. W. Hopkins to build his electric line from Reno to Steamboat Springs. The extension provides that work must begin within [illegible] and be completed within [illegible]

Col. Hopkins appeared before the commissioners and showed conclusively that he intends to build the line. His [illegible] now in the east [illegible] to begin the work.

For some time past Colonel Hopkins [illegible] the project [illegible] stated that work on the Steamboat Hotel will begin [illegible] Springs [illegible] a tent city on the [illegible] a sanitarium [illegible] Steamboat [illegible] to bring a mining center [illegible] the greatest health resorts in the world.

SUMMONS

In the District Court of the Second Judicial District, of the State of Nevada, County of Washoe.

The Farmers & Merchants National Bank, of Reno, a corporation, Plaintiff, vs.
J. P. Raine & E. Vernon, co-partners doing business under the firm name and style Raine & Vernon Supply Co., et al., Defendants.

Action brought in the District Court of the Second Judicial District of the State of Nevada, Washoe County, and the complaint filed in said county in the office of the Clerk of the said District Court on the 28th day of June A. D. 1905.

The State of Nevada Sends Greeting To J. P. Raine & E. Vernon co-partners doing business under the firm name and style of Raine & Vernon Supply Co, E. Vernon & J. P. Raine, Defendants. You are hereby required to appear in an action brought against you by the above named Plaintiff, in the District Court of the Second Judicial District of the State of Nevada, Washoe County, and answer complaint filed therein, within ten days (exclusive of the day of service) after the service on you of this summons, if served in said county, or if served out of said county, but within the District, twenty days; in all other cases, forty days, or judgment by default will be taken against you according to the prayer of said Complain.

The said action is brought to obtain a judgment against you for the sum of one thousand dollars, together with interest thereon at the rate of eight per cent. per annum, from December 19, 1904, alleged to be due upon a certain promissory note executed by said defendants to this plaintiff on said day at said county, for full value received, together with $150.00 Attorney's fee, and costs of suit.

And you are hereby notified that if you fail to answer the complain the said plaintiff will take judgment against you for $1,150 and interest on $1,000.00 thereof at the rate of eight per cent. per annum from the 19th day of December, 1904, and costs of suit.

Given under our hands this 27th day of June, in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and five.

NEVADA'S GREAT MINERAL ZONE

Now Attracting More Attention Than at Any Time in Its History

Nevada's great mineral zone seems to be attracting more earnest attention than at any other time in its history, and this is not confined to any particular section or district. From the best information obtainable the belt is from two to ten miles wide and exploitation work is being advanced with gratifying results from the Bidwell country on the north, through Cedarville, Mohawk district, Pyramid, Dogskin, Peavine mountain, Whitehorse, the Comstock mines, where a great deal of quiet work is being done, the great Tonopah, Goldfield, Gold Mountain, Bullfrog, Old Silver Peak, Gold Park, in the Panamint range, the White and Inyo mountains, Coso, Modoc, and in fact the whole Death Valley country, and even on south into Arizona.

This is not surprising from the fact that not only are the older districts showing a wonderful production of the precious metals, but newer sections are being developed and the results are an assurance of an early, greatly increased output of gold. A specially gratifying condition is that the greater the depth attained on the ore body, the richer and better defined appears the mineral bearing character of the quartz. And this field presents not only comparatively unexplored opportunity to the prospector, but the investor is warranted in expending his money because a little legitimate results are guaranteed in many of the sections named.

No part of the west offers a more extensive mineral bearing area than Nevada's great gold zone, and while the capital now being used is enormous, it is indeed very small in comparison with that which will probably be expended within the next year or two.

Along the belt mentioned there is gold, silver, lead and copper deposits in enormous quantities, and, with the railroad facilities now contemplated, it is probable that Nevada will be the scene of the most remarkable mining demonstrations ever known in the west. As a matter of fact the field is so large and offers such an enormous return on the investment that can be met with at no other time in the history of this state, or indeed of the west.

This zone has been exploited and demonstrated to such an extent that it has already made history in mining, and this is especially emphasized by the enormous amount of money already being returned quarterly as a tax on the bullion output. Probably $90,000 quarterly, which is $360,000 annually, and this amount is only a nominal part of the real net result of operations because the major portion is again placed in the ground by the small prospector and miner, with the assurance of even greater returns.

In many instances these properties are being operated on money taken out of the ground, and this is not so onerous a task as migh be imagined, because many of them have wonderfully rich surface showings, and a small shipment of ore will be sufficient returns to do a great deal of work. A case in point came under our observation a day or two since, when 100 pounds of ore, carefully selected no doubt from a mine, yielded $350 net profit as a mill return. Perhaps few properties in the west outside of our mineral belt can make such an enormous showing.

DOUGLAS IS LOOKING UP

Sheriff McCormick Says Advent of Gardnerville Road Will Do Much for County

Sheriff William McCormick of Douglas county, was here last evening with his friend, Frank T. Shortell of Carson, on his way to his ranch in Wyoming.

"The people of Douglas county," said Mr. McCormick, "are highly elated over the early prospect of railroad facilities, something that has long been needed in the valley. The advent of the Gardnerville extension will mean much to our county. We are just upon the threshold of an era of prosperity and the railroad will give us such facilities for getting in and out as we have long hoped for.

"The mining industry in our section is coming right to the front and it will not be long before a 100-stamp mill is in operation upon a property about thirty miles south of Carson. Our last tax list showed a largely increased valution and the affairs of Douglass county are in a generally prosperous condition."

BIG GOLD BRICKS FROM WINTERS MINE

Superintendent Jensen of the Winters mine near Carson arrived in Reno yesterday with two gold bricks of a total weight of about 100 pounds. One of the chunks weighed close to eighty pounds. These are among the largest bricks ever brought to Reno.

The gold represents a comparatively brief run on ore taken from the Winters property. Superintendent Jensen reports that good ore is being taken from the property and that new ore is being uncovered daily.

IN LOVE WITH THE LOST CABIN

Judge Cottrell Tells What Is Going on at His Property

When the clouds of adversity o'er shadow you and the world looks dark and gloomy, and there is a serious doubt in your mind but that life is a failure, just drop in and have a heart to heart talk with G. W. Shutter-Cottrell, and he will instill a mite of his enthusiasm in regard to that promised land in the extreme northwestern part of Nevada and northeastern California, which to him is a land of milk and wild honey.

In fact he would at once convince you that there are petrified birds sitting on petrified limbs, singing petrified songs in harmony with the sound of the hammer and the ring of the drill, and if his confidence is merited it is indeed a section of great promise for the mines are rich in gold values, there is plenty of timber for the purposes, the finest water power on Pitt river and the climate ideal, and as Mr. Shutter-Cottrell and his friend Otto G. Benschuetz, have already expended about $1600 in exploiting their holdings in that region, that is indeed a practical demonstration which is most forceful.

On the Lost Cabin load a shaft has been driven down 100 feet and is 6x8 feet in the clear. A fifty-foot drift was advanced on the lead, fifteen feet each way, and discloses six feet of solid ore, which averages about $40 in gold per ton. Something like twelve assays were had running from $40 to $63 in gold per ton.

In the bottom of the shaft the vein is opened up eleven feet wide and of about the same grade as indicated, though neither wall is yet in sight, as the vein has not been crosscut. The hanging wall is schist and the foot wall slate and some lime is encountered. There are 155 tons of ore on the dump and a number of assays would indicate its general average of $40 in gold per ton.

There is a waterfall on Pitt river about three miles distant; the height of this fall being about eighteen feet, which will furnish ample power for the entire district.

A man named Winters is working a number of gold prospects and has a very satisfactory showing.

T. C. Hess Jr. is operating several claims on which he has an exceedingly good showing.

Fort Bidwell, one and a half miles from the Nevada line, is quite active and a large number of men are at work.

For some reason this part of Nevada has been almost entirely overlooked and yet the showing is sufficient to warrant the investment of a great deal of money. One property, of which no mention is ever made in the public print, was some time ago sold for $25,000 cash and has a mill in operation and has produced many thousands of dollars, yet the world is none the wiser. It indeed seems a promising field for the prospector.

KICKER GROWS REMINISCENT

Tells of Things He Saw During Session of Legislature Last Winter

Editor Journal I notice an editorial in a recent issue of the Journal hitting the nail on the head containing the clause in the article which I know to be true from my own knowledge while stopping at the Arlington Hotel last winter while the legislature was in session in Carson reading as follows "It is perfectly natural that the corporations should have a contempt for the people, when the people permit a corporation agent to ply his trade openly in Carson daily each session knocking out measures like the fellow servant bill and being an extinguisher on all legislation designed to make the railroads do the right thing by the state and its people."

How absolutely true that statement is

I had occasion last year while the legislature was in session to be in Carson attending the Supreme Court of this state Several times did I see an agent of the Southern Pacific railroad company approach legislators and talk in direct opposition to the bill above mentioned and giving his reasons for the same An hour later I saw the same agent with two or three legislators standing up at the Arlington House bar drinking whiskey and beer and at the same time the agent handing these legislators trip passes Whether these legislators used them personally or for their friends makes no difference

This work of peddling out transportation last year was given to a United States officer who at the time and is now drawing a salary from the United States government

In other words the people of Nevada were paying this United States officer his salary for the purpose of looking after United States business in this state he receiving at the same time a salary from the Southern Pacific railroad company to throttle and damn all legislation in the interest of the people that affected the railroad

It is a notorious fact that there were several bills read that would have been of great interest to the state of Nevada had it not been for the railroad company One of these bills is the three-cent a mile bill for travel This bill was killed at birth when they were trying to get enough of the members of the legislature to pass a resolution asking for a terminal rate in the state of Nevada

Now allow me to say Mr Editor that the men who were hollowing and yelping against these bills some of them at least are today occupying federal offices in Carson If Carson is to be damned by the Southern Pacific railroad people a great many of the office holders federal and state are to be blamed

For instance why is it that the Southern Pacific Company is making such a gallant fight to keep the present officers in the United States land office? Why is it that the railroad company threw all its weight and support for George S Nixon for United States senator? Why is it when there was a resolution introduced in the last legislature requesting Nixon to do certain thing before he was finally nominated why is it these people called on the railroad company? For no other reason than to let Nixon run wild and favor the railroad company in every instance his judgment deemed proper and fit

You say "It is time for a Moses to be born like Folk or La Follette" If such a Moses should appear on the scene tomorrow morning every railroad sap in the country would be yelping and ready to tear this man with pure motives to pieces

Now Mr Editor in closing what I have to say is this If the newspapers in this state irrespective of party would support a Folk or a La Follette there would be no question but what a Moses would be found You must take into consideration the fact that when you have a rich corporation which uses the most corrupt methods in their politics that there is no limit scarcely to the sums of money they will spend to defeat such a Moses

The common people—the people earning their bread by the sweat of their brow and who pay their car fare everywhere they go—these are the people whom Moses must depend upon

In conclusion allow me to say keep up your fight and a Moses will appear

20,000 FIVE YEARS HENCE

Business Men Look Forward to Reno Doubling Population Before Year 1910

The last census taken by the United States government in 1900 gives Reno a population of 4500 persons Several of Reno's prominent citizens were discussing this fact yesterday The figures illustrate more than anything else the rapid growth of the metropolis of Nevada during the past five year for it is now conceded that Reno has a population of not less than 12-000 persons or an increase of 1500 a year since the last census was taken

"Though Reno has more than doubled in population in the past five years" said H J Gosse of the Riverside hotel "I look for a still greater increase before the next census is taken There is nothing to hold Reno back for the state is advancing by great strides and as it progresses the metropolis will naturally grow with it"

Mr Gosse gave it as his opinion that by 1910 the population of the city will be 19 000

J A McCluker manager of the Nevada Real Estate and Improvement Company prophesies that the number will be 22 000 J C Leopold of the John Breuner Company places the population five years hence at 22 500 Hon A E Cheney modestly prophesies a population of 17 500 Walter Wright of the Gray-Reid-Wright Company ventures the guess that 20 000 persons will be living here when the next census is completed S M Sample guesses 20 000 H J Darling gives it as his opinion that there will be 25 000 people living here five years from late Adolph Manheim the candy king refused to be interviewed

RAILROAD WORK IS BENEFITTING CARSON

Special to The Journal:

CARSON Oct 3—Work on the construction of the new Virginia and Truckee railroad to tidewater is progressing in a manner that shows the company intends to waste no time in getting rails into Gardnerville Every laborer available is being given work by the contractors Carson of course is feeling the beneficial effects of the large amount of money being paid for labor but the permanent results are yet to come They will be many fold greater than the present

CORDIAL WORDS BY MR. FULTON

Well Known Reno Man Says Some Good Things About This Growing Municipal City

J M Fulton, one of the old residents and best known citizens of Reno has returned from Soldville where he has been acting superintendent of the Carson and Colorado and has resumed his old position as district freight and passenger agent of the Southern Pacific

Mr Fulton has for the past two decades been prominently identified with the business life of this city and his large circle of friends will be glad to welcome him back to this city And that Mr Fulton is glad to return to his friends in the city of his adoption is vouchsafed in the cordial terms with which he expressed himself when asked if Reno looked good to him after his year of service on the frontier and almost out in the desert

"You can say for me" said Mr Fulton when seen by a Journal representative "that I am truly glad to get back among the people of this city While I have been here occasionally since going south it has never been for more than a few hours and after looking around over the business section of Reno I am greatly impressed with the progress that has been made and the general growth of the city

"Reno has truly made some rapid strides even in the year that I was away from here the growth and development of the city has been very marked

"From the few people I have been able to meet since my return I believe that never in the history of the city has there been such a spirit of optimism apparent on every hand Every one seems thoroughly imbued with the bright future ahead of us Where such a spirit exists a town cannot but forge to the fore"
